

Patient Guide to Fees and Charges for Non-NHS Services and Vaccinations V5.0

Why do GPs charge Fees, isn't the NHS supposed to be free?

The National Health Service provides most health care to most people free of charge, but there are exceptions: prescription charges have existed since 1951 and there are a number of other services for which fees are charged. Sometimes the charge is made because the service is not covered by the NHS, for example, providing copies of health records or producing medical reports for insurance companies.

Surely the doctor is being paid anyway?

GPs are not employed by the NHS; they are self-employed and have to cover their costs staff, buildings, heating etc - in the same way as any small business. The NHS covers these costs for NHS work, but not for non-NHS work.

What is covered by the NHS and what is not?

The Government's contract with GPs covers medical services to NHS patients, including the provision of ongoing medical treatment. In recent years, however, more and more organisations have been involving doctors in a whole range of non-medical work. Sometimes the only reason that GPs are asked is because they are in a position of trust in the community, or because an insurance company or employer wants to ensure that information provided to them is true and accurate.

Making Payments

We only accept cash and cheque at the practice before the work is undertaken. For medicals we require payment at the time of booking. For non-patients cheques must be supported by a cheque guarantee card. Please make your payment at reception.
